

Editor's Comment:

I have been able to go through the manuscript and the comments.
Two quick observations are as follows:

- Statistical results are usually not discussed in the Abstract and hence can be avoided.
- An important part that may be missing is the Literature Survey. In the Introduction, some references to earlier research is there but comprehensive literature survey is not existing in the paper. There ought to be some research on the use of the Policy Analysis Matrix (PAM) itself comparing it to other models. This is important as the conclusions of this paper are based exclusively on the PAM model.
