

Editor's Comment:

Having analyzed the material received, and despite the fact that the theme is an interesting one and English language is quite good, I am afraid that the paper has to be rejected as the was (correctly) accused of plagiarism and he maintains plagiarism. I checked and yellow highlighted some parts. I think it is enough to fully reject this paper.

Anyway, no one knows what sort of data were collected (assuming that they were...) and do the figures used for statistical analysis appear. So the paper could not be published anyway.
