

Editor's Comment:

Thanks for the privilege giving to give editorial decision on manuscript number 2019/IJANR/50992. I went through all the necessary files and updated peer review information, I agreed to the assertion that this article has no new knowledge in the field of diabetic nephropathy, and it is not up to date. Besides, authors could not review sufficient literatures in order to give current and meaningful information in this area. We have a lot of new renal biomarkers that could give valuable information on management of diabetic nephropathy. The manuscript is okay and good enough to convey meaningful impact to the scientific community provided they can work on the contents of the manuscript as suggested by the reviewers. Therefore, I suggest that the manuscript should be thoroughly revised before being considered for publication.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Atere Adedeji David
Lecturer, Department of Medical Laboratory Science, Achievers University, Owo, Nigeria