Compulsory REVISION comments	This study is aimed to evaluate LD50 and to determine the effect of Xylopiya aethiopia fruit on weight gain and blood sugar level of Wistar rats. The results revealed that X. aethiopia fruit possesses hypoglycemic potential but highly toxic at high dosage. The manuscript has been well written, and results are interesting.
Minor REVISION comments	1. How to standardize the Extraction of Plant Materials, that says, how many percentages of main components such as xylopic acid content, flavonoids, alkaloids and glycosides are there in the extract? Because the reduction in body weight was due to the xylopic acid, and the hypoglycemic effect was contributed to flavonoids, alkaloids and glycosides, etc. 2. In the tables, what significate a, b and c?
Optional/General comments
