

Editor's Comment:

I have examined the paper and have the following comments to make. 1) It is not clear how the 24 hr 0.5 % citric acid parameters were singled out as the best conditions for processing acceptable product from the Yam, 2) The authors should check the conclusions they made from looking at the tables on proximate composition and acceptability. 3) The in-text citation of references is not consistent. Please make them uniform. Let the authors look at these comments before publishing the paper.
