

Editor's Comment:

This paper is very interesting because With rapid development of the Internet, network security issues become increasingly serious.

The worm infection is usually a nonlinear process. Considering the actual situation, a mathematical model is introduced to describe the spread process of worms.

The author addressed the main concerns from the reviews, the revised version of the manuscript appears to be good. It looks ready for publication as far as I can tell.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Leo Willyanto Santoso

Professor, Petra Christian University, Indonesia