Compulsory REVISION comments	-This is a work on Bio-efficacy of certain chemicals against Diaphorina citri, however, the authors seem to be unaware of the nomenclatural terms, as they make very serious mistakes regarding the order of the vector insect in question, a term that has long been no longer used. -In addition, the work data remains to be discussed and compared with data from other authors. For example, discuss about ecological and behavioral aspects of the insect and environmental damage. -I suggest that after the corrections it be published in the form of a short communication. -Corrections are inserted in the text.
