Compulsory REVISION comments	In this paper, the authors have reviewed the effects of salicylic acid on controlling the fruit decay of strawberries. However, there are plenty of research and review articles on this topic. Thus, I could not see any novelty in this review article. I would suggest to authors to expand the reviews in advance, including the mechanism of SA in controlling fruit decay, use few graphical explanations, methods of application, effects of SA on different pathogens, also molecular level responses in fruits, commercial applications, and future perspectives, etc. While considering the originality of the present work, technical quality, clarity of presentation, and potential significance
Minor REVISION comments	I would like to emphasize few points that should be considered by the authors under minor corrections of this manuscript. All the corrections are given in the manuscript file using 'track changes'.
Optional/General comments
