Compulsory REVISION comments	The article presents a valuable analysis on the subject of religious education, in this case, in Greece. From a methodological perspective the topic is rigorously developed. However, the work would be strengthened by mentioning, at least, in the introduction the contributions of the French philosopher Jean Claude Monod, especially two of his works: La querelle de la sécularisation de Hegel a Blumenber, Urin, 2002 and Secularitation et laicite, Puf, 2007. This observation is optional and in no way detracts from the wealth of work.
