Compulsory REVISION comments	Interesting results on the antidiabetic effect of the polyherbal VKR formulation are presented in a clear way. The conclusion states that 'a stronger antidiabetic effect' was observed. Stronger as compared to what? Clarify this conclusion. More refs. should be given on the use of traditional medicine with plant sources against diabetes, e.g. J. Ethnopharm., 92, 1-21 (2004) and others. The WHO supports such research and application lines, so there is a must to give links to it. It would be of future interest to know more of the composition of the natural products in VKR. There may be a link to the presence of flavonoids (see for instance Nat. Prod. Commun., 10, 1878-200 (2015)).
